Elected Experience
Current Member of Yelm City Council

Other Experience
Retired U.S. Army Veteran with 25-years of Service, including leadership roles in Iraq and Afghanistan, overseeing more than 100 personnel. Interned at Pacific Northwest National Laboratory working on embedded systems and energy infrastructure. Former security supervisor for Amazon and commercial Driver for Schneider National, Inc.

Education
Bachelor of Science in Computer Engineering with a Minor Ethics - University of Washington

Community Service
Volunteer with Veteran Organizations; youth soccer and baseball coach

Statement
I'm proud to serve the people of Yelm. A community rooted in hard work, family values, and small-town pride. As one of your seven city councilmembers, I've consistently stood up for what's best for our residents, not politics or personal agendas. I'm here to serve you.

Over the past four years, I've helped pass balanced budgets while delivering results. We've added police officers to keep our neighborhoods safe, secured land for future parks, upgraded our city park, and made steady improvements to roads and sidewalks. These are the kinds of investments that matter to working families and long-time residents alike.

Yelm is growing fast. We need leaders who understand how to manage that growth without losing what makes this place special. That means making room for more jobs, more housing options, and a stronger local economy while protecting our infrastructure and keeping Yelm affordable.

I'll keep working to support our local businesses, protect public safety, expand family-friendly spaces, and make sure every tax dollar is spent wisely. We've made progress, but there's more to do.

With your support, we can make Yelm greater than ever before. I would be honored to continue fighting for you on the Yelm City Council.