My First Book: Forgotten Twin

,

I spent my childhood afraid of my twin brother. My first book is the story of what happened when I chose to face that fear. Forgotten Twin: Faith, Trauma, and the Things We Can't Repair will be available on Friday, July 17th.

My twin brother Seth was injured in a medical accident that left him unable to see, hear, or control his body. He became a permanent resident of a specialized hospital. For my younger self, having Seth as a twin was like having a monster for a shadow. I faked illnesses and lied to avoid visits. Years passed. As we approached different versions of adulthood, I was pushed to build a relationship before it was too late.

Here's why I am emailing: I am putting together a group that will support this book launch. I am looking for folks who will do the following:

1. Check out the book and consider purchasing it as a paperback or ebook.
2. Leave a review on Amazon or Goodreads.
3. And, finally, recommend Forgotten Twin to someone who might enjoy it.

Between now and the launch date, I will share advanced reviews/blurbs, information on where you can purchase Forgotten Twin (including preorders), and maybe a chapter preview. If you don't want to receive these emails, that's OK. Just select unsubscribe below.

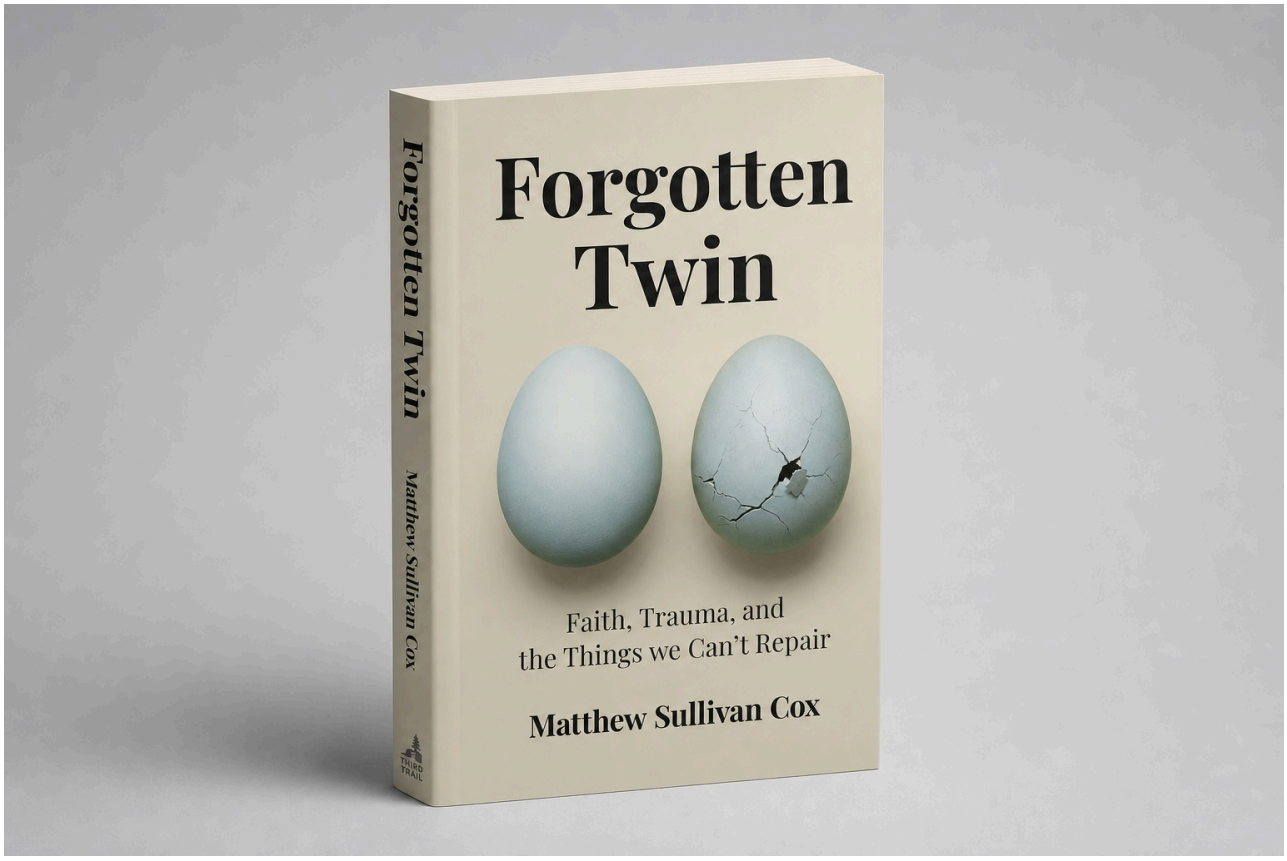

And today I have one bit of exciting news. The Amazon e-book pre-order page is live! The page includes info about the book and a great review by one of my favorite authors. I will share more info on the paperback and hardcover pages when they go live.

Thank you for your interest and support. It means the world to me. I know your time and attention are precious. I've worked hard to write something worthy of that time and attention, something I hope you and other readers will enjoy. If you have any questions or thoughts, please reply to this email. I would love to hear from you.

With appreciation,

Matt

PS: Here's the cover...

Matthew Sullivan Cox

Author, Speaker, Therapist

https://www.matthewsullivancox.com/

Unsubscribe

SENT BY mailerlite